

U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement

December 5, 2019

[REDACTED]

RE: [REDACTED]

Notice of Consequences for Failure to Depart

You are the subject of a final order of removal issued by the Executive Office for Immigration Review on [REDACTED]. As of the date of this letter, our records indicate that you have not departed the United States as ordered. Please be advised that failure to depart the United States in compliance with your final order of removal may result in civil and criminal penalties, including monetary fines and imprisonment, under sections 274D and 243 of the Immigration and Nationality Act (INA).

Under section 274D(a) of the INA, as an alien who is subject to a final order of removal, you may be subject to a civil penalty if you willfully fail or refuse to do any of the following:

- (1) depart from the United States;
- (2) make a timely application in good faith for travel documents;
- (3) present yourself for removal; or
- (4) take any action designed to prevent or hamper your departure.

The current maximum civil penalty is $799 for each day that you have willfully failed to depart, but that amount may be increased based on inflation.

Under section 243(a) of the INA, if you are removable under section 237 of the INA and subject to a final order of removal on that basis, you may be criminally prosecuted if you willfully fail or refuse to do any of the following:

- (1) depart from the United States within 90 days of the date of your final order of removal or, if you have sought judicial review of that order, the date of the final order of the court;
- (2) make a timely application in good faith for travel or other documents necessary for your departure from the United States;
- (3) connive, conspire or take any other action for the purpose of preventing or hampering your departure pursuant to your final removal order; or
- (4) present yourself for removal at the time and place required by the Department pursuant to your final order of removal.

If convicted, you may be fined, imprisoned for up to four years, or both, or imprisoned for up to ten years if you have been ordered removed under section 237(a)(1)(E), (2), (3), or (4) of the INA.

Daniel A. Bible, Field Office Director

DEC 05 2019

_____
Date